

A Welcome Note from the Editor

I am delighted and proud to welcome you to the second issue of Volume 2. Each article received and accepted is an important contribution to the already existing knowledge in the field of Biomedical Sciences. All the editorial team is excited about the progress of PBMJ as an international journal. As editor, I would like to express my heartiest congratulation to the team and welcome to the authors and readers. I am also grateful to the advisory board and managing editors. I hope that PBMJ can promote the academic and applicable research and improve the research activities and collaborations.

I am aware of the bumps along the way, but we are determined to keep pursuing the research goals to meet the high quality standards and move forward with great courage. If you have any suggestions to improve, you may write to us as a reader. In the age of technology, I can actively conversate with the readers and get their feedback to improve the quality with their valuable input.

PBMJ will continue to serve the Biomedical Sciences as an outlet for high-quality research. This is an exciting time for the journal and we look forward to working with authors, the Editorial board and the team to make PBMJ as a leading source for work in the space.
